

Artsy Happenings...

Friday, November 30

E2 students are currently working on “Graffiti Walls”. We learned all about the elusive artist Banksy and his powerful impact on graffiti culture. (Ask your child about Banksy’s latest stunt at a Sotheby’s art auction). We got into the Halloween spirit while creating our “harvest sunsets”. The sunsets were made with a bleeding tissue paper wash and Sharpies. Spooky fun!

L3 students stretched their imaginations with multimedia collage postcards. We used paints, inks, newspaper clippings, stencils, playing cards, musical scores, and more to showcase our unique personalities! Halloween vibes were rampant while creating our “haunted house landscapes”. Students were instructed to use a one-point perspective while making a spooky path to a haunted house. Then they were asked to hide something within the picture and give the whole thing a creative title. I love what the kids came up with! Be sure to ask them to share this picture with you.

I love our Fridays together and always look forward to the creativity, imagination, and joy the students bring to every assignment. Your kids are amazing!

Next up... finally heading to Japan! Oh, and some holiday crafts!
